"We can do so much more by working together."

- Arizona Representative Gabrielle Giffords, in her resignation announcement, one year after suffering a gunshot wound to the head.

Inspiring words from a courageous community and civic leader and how true this simple message is from a broad political perspective to the decisions we make in our local community.

The Junior League of Fort Wayne (JLFW) understands we can do so much more and have a deeper impact in the community by collaborating with local agencies which share our common goals. Though JLFW's Women's Independence Project (WIP), we partner with Hope House Inc. and the Fort Wayne Women's Bureau Transitions Program, to develop the potential of women, promote self-sufficiency and advance women through education and economic empowerment. The classes provided through WIP give the residents of Hope House and Transitions the tools, confidence and skills to find meaningful employment and a better future. This is made possible by three agencies and partial funding from the Fort Wayne Branch, American Association of University Women Trust who believe we can do so much more by working together.

In April, we will hold our 7th Annual, Kids in the Kitchen Event. This year, JLFW is partnering with the McMillen Center and the YMCA as we collectively fight the childhood obesity epidemic. Each agency brings expertise and knowledge to the event as we all work for the good of the community.

Our members, both Active and Sustainers, are working to develop a program which takes the leadership skills and training learned through JLFW out into the community. As members, we realize we have much to learn from each other and know we all can improve the community through the effective action and leadership of our trained volunteers, if we work together.

Internally, the JLFW committees that are the most highly productive are the committees on which all members are working together.

Representative Giffords' message caused me to reflect on the many great ways JLFW works together both internally and externally in the community. It also inspired me to wonder how else we could work together as we build a better future for women and children in the Fort Wayne community.

Fondly,

PROMOTING VOLUNTARISM

Super Saturday - February 18, 2012

East Wayne Street Center - Done in a Day Volunteer Activity

Are you interested in getting out in the community and making a difference? Volunteer for the DIAD on February 18 at the East Wayne Street Center! We will be helping the center by painting their early childhood room. This is a wonderful opportunity to help improve the lives of women and children in the community while spending time with your fellow Junior League members. Please remember that all Super Saturday volunteer opportunities are open to the public.

The East Wayne Street Center is a non-profit organization focused on strengthening families and individuals, empowering them to become self-sufficient. They were established in 1965 to help address and meet the needs of the central city neighborhood, one of the most neglected areas of Fort Wayne.

Time: 9:30am-11:30am

Location: East Wayne Street Center - 801 E Wayne Street

Please sign up by contacting Laura Klee at aurabklee@gmail.com

Junior League Orientation

As a part of our February Super Saturday, the New Member Committee will be hosting a New Member orientation following the morning's activities and lunch with Active JLFW members.

Super Saturday Orientations are designed for New Members to learn more about JLFW by participating in a hands-on volunteer opportunity, and then to take the last step in the membership process.

If you are interested in joining JLFW or if you know someone who would like to attend this event, please email Emily McCabe at emmccabe@verabradley.com for further information. The New Member Orientation and lunch will be held at the East Wayne Street Center directly following the DIAD.

Track Your League Volunteer Hours

Do you want to really help the Junior League of Fort Wayne as we make our "Case for Support" to potential sponsors, the community, and on grant applications? Please track your Junior League volunteer hours online. It's really easy - just follow these five simple steps:

1. Copy and paste this link into your web browser: https://docs.google.com/spreadsheet/ccc?key=0AqyeJDhyWvJhdFRkZTZra1YwV1pNY3hsS2ZfcW94M3c&hl=en_US#gid=0
2. When prompted, type "FWJLhours" into the login and "fwjuniorleague" into the password.
3. Find your name and enter the number of Junior League volunteer hours for each month.
4. Click "File" then "Save".

Junior League volunteer hours that count are:

The only exclusions are:

- Any time spent reading League publications
- Attendance at any other League events that are primarily "social" in nature

For any questions, please contact Katie Schindler at katiemschindler@gmail.com.

IMPROVING THE COMMUNITY

Kids in the Kitchen Spring 2012

The goal of the Kids in the Kitchen initiative is to empower children to make healthy lifestyle choices and help reverse the growth of childhood obesity and its associated health issues. This will be the 7th year JLFW has hosted a Kids in the Kitchen event in the Fort Wayne community. This year the Community Impact Committee has partnered with the McMillen Center and the YMCA to host this event.

Kids in the Kitchen will take place on Thursday, April 19 from 4:00-6:00pm at Glenwood Elementary School during the YMCA's after school program. The children will learn about healthy eating and an active lifestyle through various booths hosted by JLFW and the McMillen Center. The finale to the event will be a healthy dinner for the children and their parents. This will be an opportunity for the McMillen Center to talk about the Family Table initiative, which educates families about the benefits of eating together and gives them the support and resources to increase the frequency and quality of family meals.

If you are interested in learning more about this event or want to volunteer, please contact Michelle Banks, Community Impact Chair, at michelle.anne.banks@gmail.com or by phone at 260-755-5972.

Women's Independence Project Committee

The Women's Independence Project (WIP) Committee held the annual Career Fair and Holiday Social on December 13, at the Fort Wayne Museum of Art. Clients of Hope House and the Fort Wayne Women's Bureau Transitions program experienced a career fair setting, putting into practice the skills taught in Basics and Focus Classes. Thank you to all of our amazing volunteers who made this event a success!

WIP has a full schedule for 2012. We are teaching the Basics Class once a month, along with a variety of one hour Focus Classes. These classes are held at the downtown branch of the Allen County Public Library. WIP is also planning several field trips to the Career Closet and WorkOne.

WIP has many great opportunities for Junior League members! Volunteering for the project truly helps make a positive difference in the lives of the women looking to improve their employment options.

Upcoming events for 2012 - Schedule of dates and times to be announced

- Basics and Focus Classes
- Career Closet Visits
- Resume Workshops

How can our members get involved?

- Attend or help facilitate a Basics or Focus Class.
- Volunteer to help during a Resume Workshop, assisting with and critiquing resumes.
- Get the word out about the Women's Independence Project!

If you are interested in helping with this important project contact Carol Platt at cmplatt70@yahoo.com or call 260-341-1335.

DEVELOPING THE POTENTIAL OF WOMEN

Ruth Stone, JLFW Member For 18 Years And Still Involved!

As if Sustaining member Ruth Stone needs one more thing to keep her busy, she remains dedicated to the Junior League of Fort Wayne – and she prefers it that way. “Junior League is my lifeline of friends,” she said. “Most of my good friends I have met in or through Junior League.”

The 44-year-old Chicago native joined JLFW 18 years ago to meet people. After she returned from living in Germany for three years and Luxembourg for four years with her husband, Robert, she “rejoined” to reconnect with the community and friends. “Plus I don’t like tennis,” she joked of why she puts such an importance on being involved in JLFW.

Ruth has served with JLFW in various ways such as co-chairing the Done in a Day Committee, attending AJLI’s Organizational Development Institutes, representing JLFW in Leadership Fort Wayne, acting as Fund Development and Community Vice-President, and serving as President-Elect and then President in 2007-08.

“Being in Junior League is a way for me to give back. Sure you can give money to organizations, and my husband and I do, but giving your time is sometimes much more valuable and certainly more personally rewarding,” she said.

And Ruth knows a thing or two about how valuable time is these days. Some in the community might know her as IPFW’s Tapestry Project Manager for the past three years, but she passed off that baton this year to fellow Leaguer Kathleen Jackson. So what does Ruth do with all her spare time these days? She now is heading up IPFW’s upcoming 50th anniversary public art project, and she volunteers for the United Way of Allen County as a member of its Board of Directors, Investment Cabinet and Women United Steering Committee.

She said the skills she learned in JLFW have taught her many things she still uses today, such as organization, volunteer management, fundraising, relationship building and project management - all things women can learn from being involved with JLFW.

When asked what tips Ruth would give to brand-new members, she said, “Go to as many JLFW meetings and activities as possible. Introduce yourself. Ask questions when something isn’t clear. Don’t be afraid and don’t be intimidated. JLFW’s mission is to develop the potential of women – ours and others in the community.” She also urged new members to “step up and take a challenge. It’s OK to make a mistake. I still do! We’re all here to learn.”

Ruth has been married for 22 years and has two children, Anna, 18, a freshman at the University of Chicago; and Benjamin, 15, a sophomore at Homestead High School. When she’s not organizing something for non-profit organizations, she loves to run, bike, cook and travel with her family.

Participants in the Women’s Independence Project from Hope House and Transitions enjoy the Career Fair and Holiday Social hosted by the WIP Committee at the Fort Wayne Museum of Art on December 13, 2011.

The women received networking experience, career opportunities, gifts, great food, and lots of friendship and moral and emotional support.

JLFW Family & Friends Ski Trip - February 25th

Join the fun on the slopes (or around the fireplace in the lodge) at Bittersweet Ski Resort in Otsego, Michigan. We have a group reservation for Saturday, February 25. With a minimum of 20 skiers, we'll have discounted lift tickets ($32), ski rental ($20), and snowboard rental ($22). Kids 6 years and under are half price.

Never skied before? Don't worry! Bittersweet is an excellent place to learn. Skiers and snowboarders receive a free, one-hour class lesson as part of the group rate.

In addition, there is a "Wondercarpet" which is the easiest, safest way to lift skiers of all ages to the top of the beginner hill. There's nothing to learn - just step on the non-slip surface and ride.

Even if there is no snow in Fort Wayne, Bittersweet has a substantial base. As of January 9, they had 18 of 20 runs open. And, Bittersweet is open from 9:00am to 10:30pm. So, let's do this!

Email Laura Kapp Miller at laura.a.miller@ubs.com or call at 260-710-6147 to reserve your spot. JLFW families and friends are welcome.

Our January GMM Guest Speaker: McMillen Center's Holli Seabury

Did you know JLFW helped start the McMillen Center for Health Education approximately 30 years ago?

Holli Seabury, CEO of the McMillen Center was our guest speaker at the January GMM.

Ms. Seabury introduced our membership to the Family Table Initiative, and gave us insight as to how the McMillen Center will be working with JLFW on Kids in the Kitchen this year.

Thank you Holli!
